Dividing the Nuts

On the outskirts of a small town, there was a big, old pecan tree just inside the cemetery fence. One day, two boys filled up a bucketful of nuts and sat down by the tree, out of sight, and began dividing the nuts. "One for you, one for me, one for you, one for me," said one boy. Several of the nuts dropped and rolled down toward the fence.

As they were dividing the nuts, another boy came riding along on his bicycle. As he passed, he heard voices. He stopped to investigate. He heard, "One for you, one for me, one for you, one for me." In an instance he just knew what it was. He hurried off to find someone to tell what he heard.

Just around the bend he met an old man, hobbling with a cane. "Come quick," said the boy, "God and the devil are down at the cemetery dividing up the souls!"

Standing by the fence they heard, "One for you, one for me." The old man whispered, "Boy, you've been telling the truth." Shaking with fear, the old man and the boy gripped the wrought iron bars of the fence tighter and tighter as they tried to get a glimpse of God. At last, they heard, "One for you, one for me. That's all. Now, let's go get those nuts by the fence and we'll be done!"

They say the old man had the lead for a good half-mile before the kid finally passed him on his bike.
